FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE October 26, 2012

DELAWARE'S SUPREME COURT AND COURT OF CHANCERY NAMED AS MOST INFLUENTIAL IN CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

In its September 2012 issue, the Directorship, a leading magazine for public company board directors, named the Delaware Courts – the Supreme Court and the Court of Chancery, on its list of the most influential individuals and institutions shaping agendas in boardrooms across America. Chief Justice Myron T. Steele, Justice Randy J. Holland, Justice Carolyn Berger, Justice Jack B. Jacobs, Justice Henry duPont Ridgely, Chancellor Leo E. Strine, Jr., Vice-Chancellor John Noble, Vice-Chancellor Donald R. Parsons, Jr., Vice-Chancellor J. Travis Laster and Vice-Chancellor Sam Glasscock were individually recognized on the Directorship list of the top 100 influential players in corporate governance. The Directorship recognized the Delaware Courts for their influential leadership and commitment to upholding the highest standards and best practices in corporate governance.

The Directorship 100 was compiled by the editors of the Directorship magazine based on input from a reader survey and a panel of corporate governance experts. This is the sixth year that Chief Justice Steele and other members of the Delaware Judiciary have been named on the list of 100 most influential leaders in corporate governance.
