State of Delaware

Opening Brief

DELAWARE SUPREME COURT
2012 AUG -6 A 8:54
1000

Now Comes Appellant, Cory J. Holmes,
In the interest of justice, attempts to Move this honorable Court to reverse the lower Courts decision of denial, on June 11, 2012. Appellant asks the panel to please review the issues herein; the claims are very Meritorious in nature and require
Satisfaction of the "Due process clause"

: Summary of Arguments :

The assertions by appellant are obvious, and the lower court incorrectly dismissed the motion filed by him. The errors committed by trial counsel gave clear indications of deficient performance. The records suggest his ineffectiveness during all stages of his representation. Due process was at stake by trial counsel's performance, the state's overzealousness, and court judges' discretion.

: Statement of facts :

The appellant was indicted on alleged acts committed during supposed carjacking. The charges included, two counts of first degree robbery, first degree att. robbery, carjacking^{1st} (5) five counts possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony PDWBPP one count. Appellant's trial commenced on October 27, 2009, in which he was found guilty of all the charges. A direct appeal was filed in July 6, 2009, however, that was affirmed on (see) Supreme Ct. NO. 694, 2009.

Ground: 1 Ineffective assistance of counsel

Ineffective assistance is recognized in cases where trial attorney's performance falls below an objective standard of reasonableness. (Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 688, 694 S.Ct 2064-65)

A. Trial counsel failed to produce favorable evidence at trial, in which would contradict alleged victims testimony.

1. Appellant argues that trial counsel violated his 6th amendment right to effective assistance by not introducing phone records at trial which would've changed the outcome of trial, because the triers of facts may have found alleged-victims credibility lessened.

2. The testimony by the alleged-victim (Freeman), was that he did not know the appellant, nor did he plan any meeting in which drugs were the topic of action. (See: testimony).

3. However, the phone records evidence exclusively indicates 11 phone calls the day before the alleged-incident and 10 calls on the day in question. Moreover, the alleged victim (Freeman) admitted to having the phone for a week or two prior to the alleged-incident. The phone in question was believed to belonged to another man (Torin Hamilton), whom both men associate with.

4. The ten calls on record demonstrate the communication between the alleged victim (freeman) and appellant. Exhibit A suggest they definitely know each other prior and may have setup some sort of drug activity. The exclusion of these records more than likely damaged appellant's credibility at trial.

5. The indications are leading up to incident, calls at 2:39 pm. (102 sec.), 3:17 pm. (110 sec.), 4:02 pm. (99 sec.), 4:14 pm. (130 sec.), 4:25 pm. (82 sec.), 4:44 pm. (23 sec.), 4:45 pm. (23 sec.), 4:59 pm. (26 sec.) 5:09 pm. (185 sec.), 5:15 pm. (18 sec.).

6. There were a total of 33 phone calls from alleged-victim to the appellant, (see: Ex-A freeman phone records).

7. Alleged-victim (freeman), testified at trial, that he only spoke to the appellant "two times" prior to incident. (A-24 T-79 lines 22-A-25 T-80), lines 1-13) also see: (4-8/2-1)

8. The decision to withhold the phone record evidence was completely unreasonable and the 6th amendment violation against appellant's right to effective representation, and prejudiced appellant's right to have all options explored, see: Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 686 104 S.Ct. 2052, (1984).

9. The reason the trial Counselor gave for not presenting the crucial evidence of the phone records, is "Counselor claims he believed the extensive amount of phone calls of the records would create a theoretical scenario that bolster the states case that is the defendant targeted drug dealers to rob."

10. The appellant stresses, that this decision not to provide the jurors with exclusive documentary evidence, was not a wise "strategic choice," ① The records would prove that alleged-victim (freeman), may not have been random victim, ② alleged-victim (freeman's), testimony about alleged-incident was flawed.

11. The A.B.A. Standards in representing accused-persons are in conformity with the 6th amendment const. protection of representing the accused to the totality of the constitution. The lower court was incorrect in denying appellant's Motion for post-conviction relief (Rule 6D) application, because appellant presented the phone record exhibits, that demonstrated the requisite information to dispute the testimony made by the alleged-victim (freeman) at trial, in which completely discredited the credibility the state tried to maintain.

12. The decision was unreasonable and in conflict with the decision making process for trial attorneys, involved with the constitution's 6th amendment provision which is stable in protecting accused persons.

The counselor totally abandoned appellant's defense.

13. Furthermore, trial Counselor Contentions in his (Supplemental Memorandum) on appellant's direct appeal, is that the appellant and alleged-victim (freeman), were constantly in touch with each other, thus demonstrating prior contact relationship, and that this was essential to the accuracy of freeman's story, and would've cast doubt on the reporter's assessment of events, and what was to be printed in paper.

(SEE: Supplemental Memorandum)

14. However, Once appellant raised a deficient performance claim against (Mr. C. Heyden), the counselor, if you compare the (Memorandum) and the Subsequent (Affidavit), provided by Mr. Heyden, it's clear that he gave conflicting reasons why phone records were, and were not a sound strategy.

15. Above appellant asserts and shows the counselors contentions in proving state's argument of harmless error, is not what is suggested factually or legally. Mr. Heyden adamantly states how the newspaper reporter's account of events was plain error when admitted into evidence. (SEE: Memorandum).

16. Now on Subsequent (affidavit), when being accused of ineffective actions, counselor completely moves in opposite direction by stating the phone records may not be additive to trial, since the records show that the identification of him would be accurate. If counselor would've investigated the records with open mind and logic, he may have determined that the proof was reasonable, SEE: (Davis v. Alaska, 415 U.S. 308 (1974)). The appellant was denied the right to confront his accuser and challenge the credibility of the prosecutions witness. U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 6, and U.S. v. Gray, 878 F.2d 702-712

17. Appellant argues the points trial counsel contends, the facts are obvious, first appellant asserts that the focus he maintained at trial was a drug-deal gone bad. ② The counselor's position was the same at trial and direct-appeal. ③ The fact that Mr. Heyden stated the records would prove a relationship and make identification accurate in state's case positive is irrelevant, because appellant's testimony put him at the scene of the crime. Thus, the phone-record evidence would've impacted the jurors decisions in deliberations, changing the outcome of the trial, consequently, prejudicing substantial rights being affected on appellant and satisfying the test in Strickland v. Washington, of procedural default, attorney's performance and substantial sufficient prejudice, in connection to 6th amendment constitutional provisions. (See: Non-production of evidence inquiry at A-162 T-92 line 10 A-163 T-96 line 11).

B. Elder / Smith case

18. To put emphasis on the withholding valuable evidence by defense counselor (Heyden), the phone records still held favorable value for the appellant. Trial counsel failed to corroborate appellants testimony and oppose the state's argument, that the phone call from appellant to "Elder" was non-existent. Both "Elder" and "Smith" denied knowing appellant. Moreover, claiming appellant masqueraded as a Wilmington police officer, to gain entry into the home.

19. Despite counsel's contention that, "the phone call records would show that defendant targeted a drug dealer, hurting defendant's case. The admission would prove that appellant had prior relationship and dismantle the prosecution's case in chief. The duty of trial counsel in accordance to the 6th amendment is to perform effectively.

20. In satisfying 'Strickland', appellant asserts that his analogy in Exposing the prosecution witness' credibility through the phone records, would've given clear indication of his lax strategy. The reviewing court is required to examine the circumstances of counsel's conduct and make reasonable determination. Richter, 131 S.Ct. at 788.

21. Had the jury actually examined the phone records of appellant, make contact with 'Elder', generally they would've viewed the admitted evidence and quite possibly may have had different scope in their deliberations, ultimately affecting the outcome of the trial. Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. at 694.

22. The appellant wanted to establish the fact that, there was no burglary, he was invited in the home of 'Elder' after he made a phone call. This is consistent to what counselor (Heyden), argued in his closing. Armed with the phone call record about appellant and alleged-victim 'Elder'.

23. Although both Elder and Smith have criminal backgrounds, the fact that any person whether criminal or not may be subject to be victimized is more or less possible. However, in a court of law an alleged-victim's credibility is still in the balance when a determination of guilt or innocence is at the fate of an accused person; and the duty of the accused person's attorney is to protect his interest and be reliable, reasonable and effective. 6th amendment constitution.

24. A reviewing Court, in their evaluation, cannot overlook the conduct by appellant's trial counsel. To be more clear, the performance by counsel was well outside the wide range of professional conduct, for "Strickland v. Washington" and the prejudice is obviously the unfair trial and the on the face decision for the outcome.

25. Since the jurors already understands that whether you're a person with a criminal background or not, you can be a victim. The question for the court is, whether the evidence of the phone records would sway the jurors decision, once they've read that the alleged-victim's relationship to the appellant, changed the outlook of their perspectives? Especially after they testified about not knowing him.

26. Appellant asks the court to take a look at the (freeman) situation. The state is sure that the phone records would assist their case, because it would establish that freeman did call 911 to report he'd been carjacked. Furthermore, bolster his assertions, and verify he called his mother. Appellant admitted his role in the incidents that occurred, but states that the alleged-victims, freeman and Elder/Smith, were not truthful and told conflicting stories on record, freeman about being confused, and all told story of appellant with a gun and not really knowing appellant, yet everyone's phone number is factually on records?

27. In a contest of credibility, how can a trial attorney justify not presenting indisputable evidence, that directly opposes the states witness testimony?

28. This goes back to the case of 'Davis v. Alaska', determining cross-examination of the prosecution - witnesses. The lower court was incorrect in dismissing appellant's Rule 61 motion. The Commissioner's report and recommendation, based its decision on the analysis of 'Strickland v. Washington', since appellant made a timely filed Rule 61 motion and the bars did not apply. Appellant challenges those rulings in conjunction to 'Strickland' Standards.

29. With the evidence in hands reach, the Counselor failed to discover the evidence.

The evidence shows that appellant and "Elder" grow up in the same neighborhood, and a phone made from appellant to alleged-victim "Elder". Prior to the occurrences that transpired on January 27, 2009, appellant and alleged-victim (freeman) coresponded 10 to 11 phones calls to and from each other, suggesting some form of relationship, whether it was drugs or formal does not make a difference, the evidence disproved the testimony of both alleged-victims. Moreover, the production of those records would give jurors a better understanding of the scenario because it wouldn't take much more evidence to convince them of appellates testimony since it was already established that all alleged-victims had criminal records in support of drug activity and fraud (i.e. lying). see: same neighborhood (A88, T184), Elder/Smith criminal records (A118 T58), PCP conviction for Elder (A58 T64), and freeman drug trafficking conviction (A17, T53).

30. Trial counsel (Heydens), performance is evenly matched with the (1995) case in the tenth circuit Court. The Court found trial counsel's failure to investigate the relationship between prosecution's witness and the victim were sufficient prejudice to conclude ineffective assistance of counsel. see: (Madina v. Barnes, 71 F.3d 363) In the instant case, Counselor Heydens' failed production is mirrored to the counsel in 'Madina',

The 'Madina' court found petitioners counsel incompetent because the counselor should have discovered the evidence which linked the prosecutor's witness to the victim, and cites 'KEENEY, 504 U.S. at 10, 112 S.Ct. at 1720.

31. Unlike the 'KEENEY' court, which their decision was based on post-conviction counsel, the court in 'Madina', states the failure to assert the claim at trial, in which constitutionally entitled petitioner to effective representation, and cites, 'Strickland v. Washington' 66 U.S. 684-85, 104 S.Ct. at 2062-63. to support the standard. The appellant's counsel is incompetent as well by not providing the jurors with evidence to assist the appellant in proving his case.

32. Finally, because in demonstrating deficient representation by an attorney requires satisfying standards in the authority in mainly 'Strickland', appellant asserts; The fact that trial counsel didn't supply the direct evidence to jury, raised default, and his performance fell below objective standards of reasonableness. Furthermore, prejudiced him because his actions produced errors that denied the jurors all the facts to weigh all the evidence in their fact-finding analysis. Ultimately changing the outcome of the trial. Resulting in a "fundamental miscarriage of justice".

C. Trial counsel failed to put State through adversarial testing process.

33. Besides the above stated claims involved with the phone records not being presented, appellant offers subsequent claim of unprofessional conduct by trial attorney. The test for challenging the state's prosecutor in general requires a trial attorney to vigorously attack the prosecutor's contentions. Appellant asserts that the Sixth amendment to the Constitution guarantees the right of an accused in a criminal prosecution to be confronted with the witnesses against him. This right is secured for defendants in state as well as federal criminal proceedings under Pointer v. Texas, 380 U.S. 400, 85 S.Ct. 1065, 13 L.Ed.2d 923 (1965). And a primary interest secured by it is the right of cross-examination. (Douglas v. Alabama, 380 U.S. 415, 418, 85 S.Ct. 1074, 1076 13 L.Ed.2d 934 (1965).

34. The non-production itself raised question of specific challenge by the trial attorney. Simply putting it, the records would've gained more credibility points for the appellant than merely not showing the triers of facts that the prosecution witnesses were committing perjury. While the phone records demonstrates basic incompetency, the appellants moves to give more unprofessional errors, which led to his unfair proceedings by trial counselor.

35. The prosecution witness (Freeman), testified at trial that appellant had a gun, a Glock. The appellant testified that there was no car jacking and he never had or displayed a weapon, nor any object or appearance of an object. But stated that the meeting was a drug-deal gone bad.

36. During closing arguments, trial counsel injected a new defense to the state's case, alleging that "the object defendant used could have been a toy, or BB or pellet gun. (A-156T-70 lines 8-11). Criminal Law 10 Key 1937, under Adequacy of Representation, States, that even when no theory of defense is available, if decision to stand trial has been made, counsel must hold the prosecution to its heavy burden of proof beyond a reasonable doubt.

37. The fact that counsel used this tactic to try to convince the jury, injured appellant's defense. The counselor "misstated" the evidence, by making inferences that did not have a foundation, see: (U.S. v. Johns, C.A. Fla 734 F.2d 657). There was nothing in the evidence to suggest such a object. And the state countered here stating, "The defense wants you to believe, wants you to speculate, that it could have been a toy." Further stating that the evidence is completely to the contrary." (A-162T-91 line 3-20).

The admission of this new defense theory, is known as an affirmative defense, and by using such means that now the states heavy burden to prove the case is transferred to appellant to endure. The alternative defense is one that admits doing of act charged, but seeks to justify, excuse, or Mitigate it.

38. When you view the assertions here, it's clear that appellant testified about not possessing a gun or any other object. It's also clear, and a fact that no such toy, or pellet gun is in the evidence. Consequently, now the jurors minds are tainted by the admission by trial counsel, because to suggest the toy or pellet gun theory, is to justify you used something, or object, thus downgrading the action charged. This is the sufficient prejudice that's emphasized in Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. at 691, 104 S.Ct. at 2066.67). The adversarial testing process protected by the Sixth Amendment requires that the accused have "counsel acting in the role of an advocate." (Anders v. California, 386 U.S. 738, 743, 87 S.Ct. 1396, 1399, 18 L.Ed.2d 493 (1963)). The theory used by counselor (Heyden) was against the appellant's testimony suggesting appellant's was untruthful about not having a weapon, and destroying his credibility. This caused a serious breakdown in adversarial testing process.

39. The appellant supports his claims wholeheartedly, and the authority in U.S. v. Cronin, 466 U.S. 648, 104 S. Ct. 2039, 80 L. Ed. 2d 657, demonstrates the constitutional violations that trial counsel errors caused. The basic standard is, if counsel entirely fails to subject the prosecution's case to meaningful adversarial testing, there has been a denial of Sixth Amendment rights which makes adversary process itself presumptively unreliable. U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 6. It's the decision of the triers of facts to weigh the evidence, see State v. Trigueros, App 5th Cir. 48550 2d 568).

D. Prosecutorial Misconduct

40. One standard included in the ABA functions is the duty of a prosecutor to seek justice not just a conviction. Rule 3.8, (Special responsibilities of a prosecutor). Justice was not sought during appellant's trial on October 27, 2009.

Simply put, testimony revealed that the alleged victims (Freeman) Elder/Smith didn't know appellant nor had any communication with him, save Freeman. Alleged victim Freeman testified that he had a friend's phone (Jordan Hamilton), and that when the calls were made appellant thought he was calling (Jordan). Freeman also stated that he only knew appellant priorly because they were at an Eagles party. (A-25, T-82).

41. To get to the heart of the fourteenth amendment's equal protection guaranty, appellant offers prosecutor's statements regarding his contentions on the phone records and how they would bolster his witness's testimony, and that appellant was intending to reach another person and not his victim's phone. See: (State's response 11-14). If the state theorized all these different accounts of how the record supports his witness's testimony, then state prosecutor knew that his witness possessed (Torian Hamilton's) phone for at least two weeks and received over 10, to 11, calls back and forth to appellant. Alleged victim Freeman claimed he was confused (A-27 T-91 lines 7-23 A-28 T-92 lines 1-5), about whether he had conversation with appellant.

42. The phone records show there were over 30 phone calls listed in Freeman's phone records see (EX-A) revealing certain communication. Logically speaking, if Freeman possessed friend's phone for two weeks, and get calls from anybody, not only appellant, the person calling knows who's calling who. So basically the state prosecutor is trying to sell their story of the alleged victim didn't have a correspondence relationship with appellant. However, the logic in viewing the records tells a different story. ① The length of the phone conversations, ② The many times calls were made. ③ The alleged victim is a convicted drug trafficker. ④ If appellant was trying to reach (Torian), why didn't Freeman state anywhere on the record, at trial, during his statement to police, that he told appellant, that he had Torian's phone, and where Torian could be reached?

You would think that after 30 calls, the alleged victim would've told appellant something about where torian could be reached, that's if Freeman was not engaged in some other sort of conversation?

43. Thus, the "reason" in believing the state's story is unreasonable. The state knew full well about the above assertions and failed to correct the wrong. The fourteenth amendment protects accused persons against being convicted on false evidence, especially when the state is aware of the false evidence, or testimony. See Napue v. the people of the state of Illinois, 360 U.S. 264, 1269 74 S.Ct.

44. As an advocate for the state, prosecutor must stay within the bounds of the constitution, for correctness. See: (id. 360 U.S. 264. 1269 S.Ct.).

The state's attorney let false testimony be the focus of the trial and ignored his duties to have justice sought and trial fair. See: (Hughes v. State, 437 A.2d 559, 556 (Del. Supr. 1981)). These actions violated appellant's substantial right to have impartial trial. 14th amendment due process.

E. Abuse of Discretion

45. This court denied appellant's claim of abuse of discretion on direct appeal (2010 WL 5043910 at 4). Moreover, found that the lower court's decision to dismiss the motion (Rule 61), by Superior Court Rule 61(c)(4),

Was warranted. Appellant raises this claim again because he believes the denial of the claim initially was in error. The evidence of force, or a gun is not found in this case. While alleged victim Freeman and Elder/Smith, testify about seeing a gun, no gun was found and no force was established. The police searched the area where appellant was apprehended, footprints in the snow led them to appellant. There was no testimony about footprints anywhere else, so where is the gun, mask and gloves that victims testified to?

46. This Court has recognized the issue of the "law of the case" doctrine. The doctrine factors around prior rulings that is in error. Reexamination is warranted if the court so finds errors sufficient. See Hamilton v. State, 831 A.2d 881 (2003) 887.

Also, Injustice may trump the "law of the case," Brittingham v. State, 597 A.2d 577, 579 (1998).

47. Appellant asserts that he never had a gun and that he was being chased around car by Freeman because appellant owed him money, so appellant jumped in car and fled. Trial judge dismissed the fact that counsel wanted a limited instruction to cure the discrepancies in the charge for the defense. (A-157). Appellant testified that he didn't have a gun, that was his defense, how could trial judge view this defense as a "Choice of Evils" defense?

48. The trial judge should've automatically found title 11 Del code section 463, in a second it would've explained the complete nature of that defense and allowed the oral motion to be considered by the jury. The judge failed to weigh the option of the defense instruction, because the appellant was not justifying why he had to use force, as an emergency measure. By testifying that he was in a bind was what the jurors first heard, now because of the denial, the jury has to assume appellant used force plus had a weapon. The judge's comment was improper see: State highway Dept. v. Brizzoto, 264 A2d 347 (Del. Supr. 1970)

49. The Superior Court Rule 61(e)(4)^b bar on previous litigated claims is based on the "law of the case" doctrine. In determining the scope of the "Interest of justice" exception, the court recognizes two exceptions, ① the doctrine doesn't apply when previous ruling was clearly in error ② or, there has been an important change in circumstances, in particular, the factual basis for issues previously posed. Kenton v. Kenton, 571 A.2d 778, 784 (Del. 1990); Weedon v. State, 750 A.2d 521, 527 (Del. 2000).

50. The action by court judge was clearly a violation of Equal protection in accordance to Constitutional amend. 14th, and judicial canon 3(b), affirming impartiality.

In concluding, appellant submits to the honorable court, that the errors herein are substantial and prejudicial. The trial attorney's performance was incompetent and amounted to ineffective assistance, the state created false sense of integrity in the proceeding leading to conviction of appellant, and trial judge misled the jurors in to thinking appellant used force and had weapon, suggesting unlawful deliberate indifference on appellant. Appellant hopes these illegalities will have this sentence and conviction vacated.

QUESTION PRESENTED

Assuming that admitting the newspaper article into evidence was error, was that error harmless?

Once a court determines that evidence has been admitted in error, the burden rests with the State to demonstrate, beyond a reasonable doubt that the erroneously admitted evidence was harmless error. Van Arsdale v. State, 524 A2d 3, (DE 1987) Any error, defect, irregularity or variance which does not affect substantial rights shall be disregarded as harmless error. Taylor v. State, 685 A2d. 349 (DE 1986)

Holmes respectfully submits that a substantial right, his constitutional right to confront witnesses was affected by the admission of the newspaper article. The reporter's account of the events went into evidence without the reporter being called as a witness and therefore he was not subject to cross examination. In addition, Holmes would submit that newspaper reporters are given certain accord and weight by virtue of their occupation over that of a lay witness and therefore allowing the article into evidence unchallenged, unfairly bolstered the State's case to the prejudice of the Defendant.

The State's argues that the article is harmless and in support thereto points out how the newspaper article is in accord with it's witnesses. What the article does not do and what the State's argument ignores is that there were many facts that were unknown to the reporter. Facts that were negative to the State's case and undermined the State's witnesses. Perhaps if the reporter had the benefit of that information, the article would have had a different perspective. For example, if the reporter knew that Medinah Elder told the police that she did not know Cory Holmes (A57, T 69) and it was later revealed that they grew up on the same block (A88, T184) it might have influenced the reporter to give a different account. In addition, that fact that Medinah was a well-known PCP dealer in the city (A118, T 58) had been convicted of selling PCP (A 58, T64), and was on probation for that crime might have led the reporter to put a different spin on the story.

Furthermore, that Cory had prearranged this meeting to buy drugs from her and the dispute was about the weight of the drugs might also have had an impact on the story. The fact that Harry Smith had been convicted for criminal impersonation, shoplifting and forgery (A118, T58) might have led the reporter to question Smith's credibility and thus investigate the matter more thoroughly before putting pen to paper.

As to the second crime, if the reporter knew that Rashan Freeman was a convicted drug trafficker (A17, T53) knew that he carried two cell phones (a drug dealer's trademark) and told the police he did not know Holmes and that their meeting was pure happenstance (A20, T63) might have given the reporter a different perspective if he knew the two men had, in fact, met previously at an Eagles party, had phone conversations prior to the meeting and that Holmes said the meeting was set up to discuss his payment for drugs he received from Resean on credit that were seized by the police.(A91, T193) Furthermore, if the reporter knew Holmes knew Resean's telephone number and called him at home after he took the car may have led the reporter to cast doubt on the accuracy of the Resean's story. Rather than bolstering the story, he might have questioned it. The reporter's account treated the two events as if they involved strangers. According to Holmes, all the players knew each other and that is why he did not use a gun.

One cannot envision a scenario where this reporter would be able to take the witness stand and testify giving this account. What would further stretch any notion of fair play, courtroom protocol and the rules of evidence, would be to permit him do so and not be subject to cross examination. The admission of the article, in essence, did this by allowing the newspaper reporters 's account go into evidence, unchecked and untested by cross-examination and therefore it was not harmless error.

AFFIDAVIT OF MICHAEL C. HEYDEN, ESQUIRE

Comes now, Michael C. Heyden, Esquire, after having been duly sworn according to law does depose and say:

This case involves two crimes that occurred on the same day. On January 27, 2009, Rashaad Freeman was en route to his barber school class. He testified that he stopped at Popeye's chicken to buy chicken for the class. As he exited the shopping center, he saw Cory Holmes, whom he had met previously, walking across Route 13. Freeman testified that it was snowing and therefore he opened his door and asked Holmes if he needed a ride. Holmes told him his car had broken down and he needed a ride to Wilmington. Freeman offered to give him a ride. Freeman said that while they were in the car Holmes pulled out a gun and told Freeman to get out of the car. Holmes then drove off in the car. A few hours later, Holmes called Freeman and explained to him that he took the car because he thought Freeman was "playing him" and told him he could pick up the car at the Adams 4 Shopping Center. He said that Holmes telephoned him three times that night. Freeman's mother was present when one call occurred and testified about it in court.

Holmes' version of the events was somewhat different from Freeman's. He testified that he knew Freeman quite well and that the two of them were involved in selling drugs. Previously, Freeman had supplied Holmes with drugs on credit; however, Holmes was arrested and charged with trafficking in narcotics. The police seized the drugs that Freeman had advanced Holmes during the arrest. Unfortunately for Holmes, Freeman did not consider that a valid reason to forgive repayment. Holmes testified that Freeman was leaning on him to repay the debt and the two men arranged to meet on January 27, 2009 to discuss the issue. Freeman told him that he had to get the money one way or another, which included selling more drugs for Freeman. Holmes said he was planning to trick Freeman by telling him that he was going to go into a neighboring apartment building to get money and then run out the back door before Freeman would realize he was duped. As they exited the car, Freeman became suspicious and began chasing Holmes around the car. Holmes hopped in the car and drove away. Later that night he called Freeman and assured him he would be repaid and told him where he could retrieve his automobile. While Holmes admitted taking the car and the drugs, he denied having a gun or using force.

Holmes' pretrial statement to the police was that he had arranged the meeting with Freeman to purchase some drugs and that he took drugs from Freeman without paying and the two of them wrestled. Freeman then got out of the car and Holmes drove off in his car. He said that initially he intended to purchase the drugs; however, Freeman was acting fidgety and therefore he decided to steal the drugs.

Holmes testified that after he abandoned Freeman's car he was contemplating his financial predicament. He decided that he would go to the local PCP supplier, buy some PCP, sell it on the street and repay Freeman from the profits. He testified that he went home, picked up some cash and went to Medina Elders's house. Holmes stated he knew Medina from the neighborhood and that she was a big PCP dealer in the city. He testified that he went to her house and as the transaction was underway and that they then got into a heated argument about the quantity of the PCP. Holmes thought the seller was shorting him on the quantity and the seller was accusing him of hiding some of the PCP she was selling to him. The argument became so loud and contentious that Holmes ran from the house with the PCP. He admitted stealing the PCP but denied having a gun or using force to get the drugs. He was found by the police in the alleyway behind the house. No gun was found.

Medina Elder had a different story. She testified that she was home with her friend, Harry Smith, and they had just ordered pizza. There was a knock on the door and Harry opened the door. According to his testimony, he was confronted by a man wearing a mask, a black coat, black pants, black skull cap and holding a gun. He testified that the man ordered him to go upstairs and held them at gunpoint. The gunman then took money from Medina. At one point, the robber's attention was diverted and Medina ran from the house into the street trying to flag down a car. One passerby was Mr. Bovell, a local bail bondsman, who knew Medina. He picked her up and took her to a police car that was parked in the area. The police responded to Medina's house and saw footprints in the snow leading to the back of the house. They followed the footprints and found Holmes hiding in the alleyway behind the house. After a brief struggle he was arrested. The police did not find a gun at the crime scene.

At all times relevant hereto, the undersigned filed the appropriate pleadings and received the discovery required to be produced in this case. All the discovery was reviewed with the defendant. The telephone records including the calls between Freeman and the defendant were the subject of cross examination. Freeman did admit to having contact with the defendant prior to the date of the robbery. He also admitted to having telephone calls with the defendant after the robbery. Furthermore, the defendant took the witness stand and fully explained his position to the jury.

Holmes raises various issues concerning the cell phone records. He argues that if he can show that the victims were not completely telling the truth and in fact they were engaging in a drug deal with Holmes then he should be found innocent. Initially, it should be noted that just because the victims are drug dealers; it does not mean they cannot be robbed.

Furthermore, if they were familiar with and knew Holmes, than their identification was more likely to be accurate. In addition, if they had conversations over the phone with Holmes, then the records would substantiate the relationship. Furthermore, if they were drug dealers, they were marks, as drug dealers are known to carry a lot of cash and many times are unwilling to call the police if they are robbed. In any event, the cell phone records could be used to show that the robbery was planned. If Holmes knew they were drug dealers, than that was the motive he used to select them as targets. Most important, I believe that the cell phone records reflected a 911 call by Freeman that substantiated the State's claim that he was being robbed. The fact that the victims engaged in a drug deal with Holmes did not exonerate him of the robberies and car jacking.

Holmes claims that he was advised by counsel that he could not be convicted of the gun charge because the police did not find the gun. That simply is not true and he was never advised of that by counsel, on the contrary, that was the defendant's assertion, which counsel repeatedly told him was incorrect.

Holmes claims that counsel should never have permitted him to testify. The decision to testify or not testify was Holmes' decision alone. Counsel advised him on the advantages and disadvantages of testifying and discussed how he should present himself on the witness stand.

Holmes' decision to not take the plea offer was against the advice of his counsel. Holmes' decision to go to trial was based upon his belief that the victims would not appear at the trial because he knew them and they were drug dealers. His belief was incorrect.
