MANDATORY REPORTING OF CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT RESOURCE GUIDE
Reporting Law

Under 16 Del. C. § 903, “any person, agency, organization, or entity who knows or in good faith suspects child abuse or neglect shall make a report.” This means that every person in Delaware is mandated to report child abuse and neglect. In addition, agencies, organizations, and entities will be held accountable when individuals fail to report.

The law also clarifies that “no individual with knowledge of child abuse or neglect, or knowledge that leads to a good faith suspicion of child abuse or neglect, shall rely on another individual who has less direct knowledge to call the report line.” This means that an individual does not satisfy his/her statutory, child abuse mandatory reporting obligations if he/she relies on another person without direct knowledge to make the report on his/her behalf.

However, if there are multiple people with direct knowledge of child abuse or neglect, a joint report may be made by one person, but it must include all persons with joint knowledge of the known or suspect incident of child abuse or neglect. The best practice would be for all the individuals with direct knowledge to call the Report Line together.

Failure to Report

Individuals who fail to report child abuse or neglect may be liable for a civil penalty. The Division of Family Services (DFS) reports all persons, agencies, organizations, and entities to the Department of Justice for investigation if they fail to make mandatory reports of child abuse or neglect to the DFS Report Line. The civil penalty must not exceed $10,000 for the first violation, or $50,000 for subsequent violations.
Handling a Disclosure

Disclosure means a child has chosen you as the person they trust to tell what has happened to them. If a child discloses abuse or neglect, listen, believe, and support the child. Disclosing is scary and the child might think they are in trouble for telling or did something wrong. Let the child know it is not their fault, they did nothing wrong, and they didn't do anything to deserve what happened to them.

Immediately after a child discloses, make the report.

How you react to a disclosure matters and it's critical not to traumatize the child further. Stay calm and don't yell or get upset. Give the child time and space to talk about what happened. Allow for silence while the child is telling their story and only after they are done, thank them for sharing. If they haven't already shared the information you need to make a report (who, what, when, where), ask the Minimal Fact Questions but nothing more. Leave the questions to the trained professionals so the child doesn't have to keep reliving the trauma every time they are questioned.

Never ask the child to undress or take photographs. Do not question the child beyond the Minimal Fact questions. Your only job is to respond to the disclosure and immediately make the report.

Listen, believe, support, and report.
Minimal Fact Questions may be necessary when an individual has knowledge or reasonable suspicion of child abuse or neglect AND must make a report to the DFS Report Line. Minimal Fact Questions help reporters to obtain the information needed to make a clear and concise report of child abuse and neglect, and it focuses reporters on the essential information – who, what, when, and where?

There are three scenarios when individuals may have knowledge or reasonable suspicion of abuse or neglect:

1. Disclosure - A child discloses to you
2. Discover - You witness the abusive behavior
3. Reason to Suspect – You have seen behavioral and/or physical signs of abuse or neglect with child

If you witness an act of abuse or neglect, ensure the child is physically safe, immediately contact the police and then call DFS. It is not necessary to ask the minimal facts in situations where the child is imminent danger.

The Minimal Fact Questions are as follows:

- What happened?
- Who did that to you? Are there other victims/witnesses?
- Where did this happen?
- When did this happen?

Make sure to write down the child’s exact words. Also, try to limit the number of persons the child interacts with so the child will not have to tell the information over and over again. Finally, if the child is unable to communicate, then make the report based on your observations of the behavioral and/or physical indicators of child abuse or neglect.
All suspected child abuse and neglect of any minor in the state of Delaware must be reported to the DFS Report Line at 1-800-292-9582. Professionals making a report cannot report anonymously—you must leave your name. Mandated reporters must keep in mind that the child’s safety could be in jeopardy if a report is not received in a timely manner. When a child’s life is in danger, you should call 911 immediately and then make a call to the Report Line.

Less serious reports of child abuse or neglect may be submitted online to DFS at Iseethesigns.org. Online reports satisfy your obligation under the law so long as the online reporting tool is utilized appropriately. Please note that online reports are not reviewed immediately like Report Line calls. Online reports should never be used if there is injury or suspected injury to a child. If in doubt about whether a Report Line call is needed, the online reporting tool will provide mandated reporters with direction, as long as the questions are answered accurately. If the tool determines that a call to the Report Line is warranted, please make the call immediately.

DFS uses the Structured Decision Making® model for handling reports received through the Report Line. The three main questions that will be asked of the reporter are:

- What are you worried about?
- What is working well?
- What needs to happen next?

These questions act as guides for helping Report Line staff understand the complete scope and nature of the report. Spanish translation is available 24/7. When the reporter leaves their name and number, a translator is on call and will call the reporter back to take the report. Every report is digitally recorded and reviewed by a DFS Report Line supervisor. If informed that your report does not meet criteria for investigation and you continue to have concerns, you should ask to speak to a Report Line Supervisor.
Making a Report

DFS is required to receive all suspected reports of child abuse and neglect in the state. Upon receipt of a report of suspected abuse or neglect, DFS will do one of three things:

1) Accept the report and investigate the allegations OR conduct a family assessment

2) Refer the report to law enforcement for investigation

3) Document the report but not investigate the allegations

DFS responds according to the priority level given to each investigation case. DFS Response times are: P1: Within 24 hours; P2: Within 72 hours; P3: Within 10 days.

Information Needed

The DFS Report Line may ask reporters to provide information such as:

- Child’s statements
- Physical symptoms and/or behavioral changes
- Any information about the way the caregiver’s behavior is impacting the care of the child
- Alleged child victim’s physical health, mental health, educational status
- Medical attention that may be needed for injuries
- Family composition
- Any information that could put the child’s or DFS worker’s safety in peril

Demographics can usually be found in the child’s records. If you already have the information, then there is no need to ask the child. Prepare to be on the phone call for about 20 minutes so that you can make a detailed report. Reports by professionals cannot be made anonymously—you must leave your name.
The Delaware Code requires a comprehensive investigation by a multidisciplinary team (MDT) for cases of child abuse and neglect. This approach is described in a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the MDT, which consists of DFS, law enforcement, the Department of Justice and the Children’s Advocacy Center.

MDT Roles and Responsibilities:

- DFS: is required to receive all suspected reports of child abuse and neglect in the state. However, DFS is only responsible for investigating intrafamilial and institutional cases. The only exception to this is cases of child trafficking. While extrafamilial cases must be reported to DFS, DFS is only responsible for receiving, documenting and referring these cases to law enforcement for investigation.
- Law enforcement agencies: are responsible for conducting criminal investigations of child abuse and neglect. Reports may be made to law enforcement but not in lieu of contacting DFS.
- Department of Justice (DOJ): are responsible for the prosecution of criminal cases throughout the State from misdemeanors to murders.
- Children’s Advocacy Center (CAC): Whenever appropriate, cases will also be referred to the CAC for a forensic interview, medical exam and/or mental health screening.

Definitions of Abuse & Neglect

Physical Abuse
Physical abuse is defined as causing any physical injury to a child through unjustified force, torture, negligent treatment, sexual abuse, exploitation, maltreatment, mistreatment, or any means other than accident. [11 Del. C. § 1100 (1)]

Physical injury is defined in statute as any impairment of physical condition or pain. [11 Del. C. § 1100 (5)] This means that injury and pain are considered when a case is received regarding allegations of abuse against a child. However, pain and injury alone DO NOT make the force unjustified. In fact, Delaware law does not prohibit physical discipline or corporal punishment as sometimes the use of force is for the purpose of safeguarding or promoting the welfare of a child. For instance, a person intentionally inflicting pain to cause harm to a child and not for the purposes of discipline is vastly different than a person spanking a child to address the child’s misbehavior.

The Delaware Code identifies examples of unjustified force as: Throwing, Kicking, Burning, Cutting, Hitting with a closed fist, Interfering with breathing, Use/threatened use of a deadly weapon, Prolonged deprivation of sustenance/medication, and Doing any other act that is likely to cause/does cause physical injury, disfigurement, mental distress or substantial risk of serious physical injury or death. [11 Del. C. § 468(1)c.]

Any and all of these incidents require an immediate report to the DFS Report Line, and DFS is required to notify law enforcement of potential criminal violations against a child. Reporters are not responsible for determining if the use of force against a child is justified or unjustified. DFS or law enforcement will make that determination.

Neglect
Neglect occurs when, while having the ability and financial means to care for a child, the parent or caregiver:
· Fails to provide necessary care, which may include food, shelter, or medical care;
· Fails to provide supervision appropriate for the child; or · Chronically engages in substance abuse and the abuse negatively impacts the care of the child. [10 Del. C. § 901 (18)]
Definitions of Abuse & Neglect

Sexual Abuse
Sexual Abuse is defined as any act against a child that is described as sex offense in the Criminal Code, including: sexual harassment, indecent exposure, incest, unlawful sexual contact, rape, sexual exploitation of a child, or sexual abuse of a child by a person in a position of trust, authority or supervision. [10 Del. C. § 901 (21)]

Delaware’s consent law is broken down into these age groups:
- Children less than 12 years old: CANNOT legally consent to sexual contact.
- Children ages 12-15 years old: can ONLY consent with someone who is no more than 4 years older than the child.
- Children ages 16-17 years old: can consent with someone under 30 years old.
- ALL children under 18: CANNOT legally consent to sexual contact with ANYONE in a position of trust, authority, or supervision over them.

Commercial Sexual Exploitation
Commercial Sexual Exploitation is the broad term under which Domestic Minor Sex Trafficking (Child Trafficking) is categorized. It includes the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, or obtaining of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act, in which the commercial sex act is induced by force, fraud, or coercion, or in which the person induced to perform such an act has not attained 18 years of age.

It can be difficult and dangerous for victims to leave their traffickers as the perpetrators typically use various methods of “conditioning”, such as starvation, confinement, physical abuse, rape, forced drug use, and threats of violence towards the victim and/or their families. While any child can be targeted by a trafficker, research has shown that traffickers often target children with increased vulnerabilities, including:
- Children who frequently run away (especially 3+ missing incidents)
- Children who have experienced childhood sexual abuse, especially if the abuse was unreported or unaddressed, or resulted in the child being removed from the home
- Children who have experienced prior sexual assault or rape
- Children with significant substance abuse issues or who live with someone who has significant substance abuse issues
- Children who identify as LGBTQ+ and have been kicked out or who have been stigmatized by their family.
Definitions of Abuse & Neglect

Emotional Maltreatment
Emotional Maltreatment is sometimes defined as psychological maltreatment, which includes both emotional abuse and emotional neglect:

- Emotional Abuse— threats to inflict undue physical or emotional harm, and/or chronic or recurring incidents of ridiculing, demeaning, making derogatory remarks or cursing. [10 Del. C. § 901 (10)]
- Emotional Neglect— incidents of isolating/shunning, rejecting, or ignoring a child.

Domestic Violence
Domestic Violence (DV) is a pattern of abusive behaviors and tactics used by one partner to gain and maintain power and control over another intimate partner. Children of all ages can be deeply affected by DV. Cases involving children must be reported to DFS when a child is experiencing:

- Physical Harm— child is injured; child is suspected to be injured, since a weapon or potentially dangerous object has been used; or child has attempted to physically intervene.
- Emotional Harm— child is aware (sight or sound) of an incident perpetrated against their caregiver and it involves a significant injury to the victim or use of a weapon; and child has a diagnosed mental health condition or behaviors that signify severe psychological harm.

Dependency
Dependency is not the same as neglect. Dependency occurs when a parent or caregiver does not have the ability or financial means to provide necessary care for the child, or when the child is living in a non-related home on an extended basis. Reports must be made to DFS for dependent children or children living with an adult individual who is not an adult relative. The term “extended basis” is used to suggest that the child resides in the home, as opposed to just visiting. It is the responsibility of DFS to determine if the living arrangement has been on an extended basis and to explore the appropriateness of the living arrangement through interviews, a home assessment, and background checks. [10 Del. C. § 901 (8)]

1. Can I be held liable for making a report of child abuse or neglect?
As long as you make a report of child abuse or neglect in good faith you will have immunity from any liability, civil or criminal, so long as the report is made without malice or willful misconduct. [16 Del. C. § 908]

2. What if my organization/entity requires me to notify an administrator or other employee (such as a School Resource Officer (SRO), counselor or nurse) before making a report to DFS?
In Delaware, we have been very clear that a report must first be made to the DFS Report Line. Then, the administrator should be notified immediately after. This is because there have been situations where an administrator has discouraged an individual from making a report, or has required approval prior to making a report. Agencies, organizations or entities may be exposed to civil penalties if an administrator makes a decision not to report on behalf of the individual.

3. Do I satisfy my statutory, child abuse mandatory reporting obligations by only contacting the law enforcement agency?
No. The statute requires an immediate report to the Division of Family Services (DFS) Report Line. Law enforcement may also be contacted but not in lieu of contacting DFS. [16 Del. C. § 904]

4. Am I violating HIPAA when I make a report?
No. The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) of 1996 does not preclude reporting suspected child abuse.

5. Can I make an anonymous report? Does DFS release the name of the reporter?
No. Professionals cannot report anonymously. DFS does not release the name of the reporter.

6. Can information about a DFS investigation be shared?
In general, DFS will share information only when there is a signed release of information. However, DFS, law enforcement, the Children’s Advocacy Center and the Department of Justice exchange information on families and children when there is a shared client and this information is needed to assist an investigation.
7. Can I be told any information about the disposition of my report?
DFS Report Line staff will call mandated reporters to provide the general disposition of the report. [16 Del. C. § 903]

8. What if I do not have proof that a child is being abused or neglected?
You do not need to have proof, evidence, or a confession of any alleged abuse or neglect to make a report to the DFS Report Line. You only need knowledge to reasonably suspect abuse or neglect though physical or behavioral signs of maltreatment.

9. What are the categories of child abuse and neglect?
Child abuse and neglect is categorized based on the identity of the perpetrator. The three categories are: intrafamilial, extrafamilial, and institutional.
- Intrafamilial— Any child abuse or neglect involving a parent, guardian, custodian, or any other members of the child’s family or household.
- Extrafamilial— Any child abuse or neglect involving an alleged perpetrator who is not a member of the child’s family or household AND does not involve institutional abuse/neglect.
- Institutional— Any child abuse or neglect which has occurred to a child in the custody of the Department of Services for Children, Youth & Families (DSCYF) and/or placed in a facility, center or home operated, contracted or licensed by DSCYF.

10. Should I call the DFS Report Line to report a child that is in crisis??
If you become aware of a child in crisis (i.e. suicide talk or attempts) a report should be made to the Division of Prevention and Behavioral Health Services 24-Hour Mobile Response and Stabilization Services at 1-800-969-HELP (4357). This will ensure that the child is connected to the appropriate services immediately.
11. How do I tell the difference between physical abuse and accidental injury?
- Cuts and bruises caused from accidents normally occur on bony areas of the body.
- Reoccurring injuries likely indicate abuse.
- If a series of injuries appear in a pattern or resemble an object, the injury may have been inflicted.
- If the child’s or caregiver’s explanation for the injury is inconsistent with the facts, the injury would be suspicious.
- Suspect abuse if the caregiver delayed in seeking medical attention.

12. What is considered “normal” vs. abusive sexual behavior in children?
Childhood sexual behavior is common and varies based on age and developmental level. However, you should call the Report Line for concerns with childhood sexual behavior that:
- Is clearly beyond the child’s developmental stage (a three-year-old attempting to kiss an adult’s genitals).
- Involves threats, force, or aggression.
- Involves children of widely different ages or abilities (an 11-year-old inappropriately touching a four-year-old).

13. Does sexting need to be reported?
Sexting or youth produced sexual images are nude, sexually suggestive, or explicit images possessed and/or transmitted by way of cell phone, electronic device or online. The transmission of youth-produced sexual images makes sexting unlawful. A report must be made to the DFS Report Line when:
- Child did not consent to being photographed or recorded, or
- Cannot consent to the sexual act or to being photographed or recorded due to his or her age (under 12).

14. Are mandated reporters statutorily required to notify DFS of child abuse or neglect that occurred out of state?
Yes. Delaware’s child abuse mandatory reporting law does not limit the reports of child abuse or neglect to incidents that occur only within Delaware. The Report Line will accept calls of child abuse or neglect that may have occurred out of state.
15. At what age can a child be left alone?
Delaware law does not specify an age when a child may be left alone. For any aged child, DFS considers factors such as the child’s level of functioning, maturity, physical and mental health, disabilities, length of time alone, and the time of day. Mandated reporters must contact the Report Line if they have knowledge or reasonable suspicion that a child has been left alone for a period of time that is inappropriate for the child’s age or developmental status. DFS recommends never leaving a child alone in a car, regardless of age.

16. Does the law require a report when an adult discloses abuse or neglect that happened when they were a child?
Yes, reports about past child abuse or neglect are also required. Reports must be made even when it is suspected that the alleged offender is deceased, was charged/prosecuted, or is unknown, and this information must be corroborated by the proper authorities. Please also remember:
- Young adults may still be in the custody of DSCYF until the age of 21, so DSCYF must be notified of these allegations.
- In other situations where one particular victim of abuse or neglect is now an adult, other children may still be at risk of victimization by the alleged offender.

17. Does this obligation exist if the adult refuses to provide information?
Yes, so long as the information originally provided by the individual creates a good faith suspicion.

18. Does this obligation exist if the adult provides a vague disclosure (e.g. I was raped as a child) and no other minimal facts (who, what, when, and where)?
Yes, a report must still be made to the DFS Report Line.

19. Is this requirement limited to sexual abuse since there is no statute of limitations?
No, all child abuse and neglect must be reported to the DFS Report Line.
If you suspect a child is being abused or neglected

First, gather the Minimal Facts, but nothing else
1. What happened?
2. When did it happen?
3. Where did it happen?
4. Who did this to you?
5. Are there any other victims or witnesses?

Then, make the report to the Division of Family Services (DFS)
- Call the 24/7 Report Line at 800-292-9582
- OR report online at iseethesigns.org

Making a Report to the Division of Family Services Child Abuse and Neglect Report Line

START
A child discloses abuse or neglect OR you have seen behavioral and/or physical signs of abuse or neglect.

Ensure the child's immediate safety. Ask the minimal fact questions to gather missing information: What happened? When did it happen? Where did it happen? Who did this to you?

Child disclose abuse OR injuries are suspicious for abuse and child doesn't provide reasonable explanation

Report to DFS Child Abuse and Neglect Report Line

You suspect neglect or abuse based on behavioral and/or physical indicators

Ask the minimal fact questions to gather missing information: What happened? When did it happen? Where did it happen? Who did this to you?

Child does not disclose abuse or neglect AND explanation of indicators is consistent with accidental injury, medical condition, or psychological/social issue

Report not needed, however, document the situation

Making a report:
- All persons with direct knowledge must make an immediate report to the DFS Report Line
- If child's immediate safety is a concern, call 911
- Have records for family and child ready, if you have access to them
- Share your concerns regarding siblings, domestic violence, substance abuse, dangerous animals, and weapons with the DFS staff
- You will be asked the minimal fact questions and what your concerns are
State of Delaware Age of Consent Flowchart

Is the child under the age of 12?

Yes: Children under the age of 12 cannot consent to any sexual contact

No: How old is the minor?

12-15 Years Old: Children ages 12-15 can only consent to sexual contact with someone who is no more than 4 years older than they are

16-17 Years Old: Children ages 16-17 can only consent to sexual contact with someone who is under 30 years old

18 Years Old or Older: Does the person have a physical, cognitive, or mental disability that makes them substantially impaired?

Yes: Consent cannot be given

No: Consent can be given
