

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Nov. 19, 2015

Vice Chancellor John Noble to retire in February

Vice Chancellor John W. Noble has informed Gov. Jack Markell of his intention to retire from the Court of Chancery effective Feb. 26, 2016.

“It has been an honor and a privilege to serve the people of the State of Delaware for fifteen years, but, for me, it is now time to move on to whatever life will bring next” wrote Vice Chancellor Noble in his letter to the Governor dated Nov. 18, 2015.

Vice Chancellor Noble has not announced his specific plans following his retirement from the bench.

Chancellor Andre G. Bouchard issued the following statement on behalf of the Court of Chancery:

“During his fifteen year tenure on the Court of Chancery, John has displayed consummate skill and a natural sense of equity and fairness as a judge. Known for his wry wit and calm demeanor, John has been a pleasure for litigants to appear in front of, and a fabulous colleague to work with. The judges and staff of the Court of Chancery will miss him dearly, but extend our sincerest thanks and congratulations to him for all he has done for the Court and our State.”

Delaware Supreme Court Chief Justice Leo E. Strine, Jr., who served with Vice Chancellor Noble on the Court of Chancery, joined Chancellor Bouchard in thanking Vice Chancellor Noble for his years of service:

“It was my privilege to serve longer on the Court of Chancery with John than anyone. John never had a case he did not take seriously, and he applied his considerable intellect and instinctive sense of equity to every case, whether it was the largest corporate merger, a neighborhood dispute, or a guardianship case. All of us in the Judiciary will miss him enormously, and wish him and Nadine all the best as they embark on the next stages of their lives together.”

Gov. Markell, in accepting the Vice Chancellor’s letter, also added his thanks and well wishes:

“During his fifteen years on the Court of Chancery, John Noble exhibited all the traits that make the Court the nation’s most respected forum for corporate litigation. Vice Chancellor Noble’s expertise, integrity, humility and impartiality furthered the Court’s reputation for excellence, predictability and fairness. I greatly appreciate his service to the State of Delaware.”

Vice Chancellor Noble was first appointed to the Court of Chancery in 2000 by Gov. Tom Carper and re-appointed by Gov. Jack Markell in 2012.

Vice Chancellor Noble holds a B.S. in Ch.E., magna cum laude, from Bucknell University and a J.D., cum laude, from the University of Pennsylvania Law School. Following law school, he served as a federal district court law clerk and then practiced with Parkowski, Noble & Guerke, P.A., in Dover, Delaware.

For more information, please contact:
Karlis Johnson, Chancery Court Administrator
(302) 255-0550
Karlis.Johnson@state.de.us